

JORDAN GOES TO TOMMY NELSON PEGOS FOR BOUT HITS 'EM HARD

Chris Would Wrestle Bylund; Bobby to Rest Up in El Paso.

Chris Jordan, middleweight wrestler and holder of the American championship until he lost to Bobby Bylund, has gone to Pecos. Chris received such an attractive offer from the little oil center and also from Corcoran that he decided to leave off his challenging to Bylund for a short time and pick up some easy money in other towns of the state. His challenge to Bylund still stands, he says.

Will Meet George Sauer.
Jordan intends to go to Corcoran from Pecos and will get into shape for his meeting with George Sauer there on next Wednesday night. He has been assured of a contest in El Paso sometime within the next two months by matchmaker Jack McLaughlin, the present activities of the association being confined to giving the fans some new faces in order that they may see all of the top notches of the middleweight division.

Bobby Bylund is making El Paso his home temporarily. The sterling wrestler will remain here until after his bout with Charlie Donnelly, another El Paso favorite, and his announced that he is going to train harder than ever before in order to secure his supporters a victory over Hentrop. He realizes that he is meeting one of the best men in the world at the middleweight limit and intends to leave nothing undone which will in any way contribute to a victory over the sturdy Alaskan who has won many bouts since his last appearance here.

Both are Well Known.
Bylund and Hentrop are undoubtedly two of the fastest and most popular men who have appeared in the local limelight since the inauguration of the wrestling game. Each is an exceptionally clean sportsman, is fast, possesses a substantial record and is their popularity in El Paso there is no doubt.

LETTERS OF THE CZARINA TO THE CZAR IN WAR TIME

Revealing the Flirtations of the Czar's Favorite, Ania, and Alix's Displeasure.

Empress Works in Hospitals and Visits Wounded to Relieve the Loneliness of Separation.

By Isaac Don Levine.

ARTICLE IV.—THE BREAK WITH ANIA.

ALTHOUGH in the early months of the war the czarina was engaged in her hospital and relief work, Ania continued to play an important part in her life. The czarina endeavored in her letters to discredit Ania to the eyes of the czar. She tells of Ania's flirting much with a young Ukrainian officer and of being "colossally gay" and not over amiable to her, the czarina. Fearing that upon his return the czar would again fall under Ania's influence, she writes warning her husband to beware of Ania's "foot game."

In the last of the czarina's letters, published in today's installment of the series, is the story of the break between Ania and the czarina on account of the former's behavior in the Crimea, apparently in the spring of 1914, when the czarina's first letter was written. It is probable that the czar's two days' trip from Livadia at the time was the result of Ania's misconduct, evoking the czarina's indignation. "The black family, and now this!"

The opening letter today, dated Oct. 21, or Nov. 6, 1914, according to our calendar, describes the czarina's Red Cross work.

Czarina in Hospital Work.

"Tarkovsky Selo, Oct. 24, 1914.

"My own precious darling! All right in town. Tatiana had her committee which lasted an hour and a half. She joined us at my Red Cross station. When I went with Olga after the store, lots of people were working in the winter palace, and many came to fetch work and other things to bring back their finished things. I saw the wife of a doctor there who had just had a letter from her husband from Kovel, where he is in a military hospital, where they have little food and nothing to dress the men in when they leave the hospital. I wonder how you spend your days and evenings and what your plans are. Our friend was very pleased we went to Luga, and in sisters' words, she wanted me to go about more and not wait for your return to Pskov, so I shall spin off again, only this time until the governor, I suppose, as it's a bigger town, but that makes it always shyer work. I shall take the linen with me to the military hospital, which she said needed things, or send it after. There were many wounded at the Red Cross station today.

With Ania and Hagnetta.
"21st. Good morning, my love! I slept much better this night, only need to begin more heartily. I feel, as chest and heart ache. Thermometer is on zero this morning. Ania is in excellent spirits this time. Our friend (Hagnetta) intends leaving for home about the 5th and wishes to come to us this evening.

"God bless and keep you, my treasure. Have no time for more. Kisses without end. Ever your own old "WIFE."

"The girls kiss you fondly. Our love to N. P. (Nicholai Pavlovitch). Tatiana had her committee and a reference to the organization for relief work among the army. It was headed by the grand duchess Tatiana, the czar's second daughter.

Paul Wants to Go to War.

"Tarkovsky Selo, Oct. 24th, 1914.
"My own sweet treasure: Now you are off to Kholm and that will be nice and remind you of ten years ago. Loving thanks for your telegram; it was surely pleasant seeing your dear husband and the made a cheval. After the hospital this morning we went into two private houses to see the wounded—always old patients of ours. Frederick came to luncheon, really he had nothing to tell, brought several telegrams to show, and looked pretty well.

"Paul came to tea. He longs to go to war, and so I am writing this to you with his knowledge, so as for you to think it over before you meet him again. All along he has been saying take him, but now he sees there is little chance, and to remain at home doing nothing drives him to desperation. He would not like to go to Husky's staff, as that would be inconvenient. (Paul is grand duke Paul Alexandrovitch, the czar's uncle.)

"We just returned from two hospitals where we saw wounded officers and the old priest of your father and who got overworked and was sent back. I sent letters from Olga for you to read (privately), and if you see her, can you give it back to her? I got another sweet letter from her today, so full of love, dear child, she does work so hard. Now, Lena's train (my name) will only be ready later. Am so sorry. Wonder whether you will send us anywhere, or whether we can get into Scholensburg's train. Think he must return soon. The weather is mild today. It is gently snowing. Bally returned and then made a fire which he enjoyed. The children told you probably all about the consecration of the church, even must as it, and that we visited our officers after Edward. Igor gave me news you had a town on the boundary of Poland and Russia. "Dora" mentioned frequently in these letters, is probably the grand duchess George Michailovitch.)

Telling Tales of Ania.

"Tarkovsky Selo, Oct. 27, 1914.

"My own sweetest Nicky dear: I have come earlier to bed as I am very tired. It was a busy day, and when the girls went to bed at 11, I also said good night to Ania. Her humor toward me has not been amiable this morning, what one would call rude, and this evening she called me later than she had said to come and was queer with me. She flirts hard with the young Ukrainian, misses and lones for you—at times is colonelly gay. She went with a whole party of our wounded to town (my chance), and missed herself manfully in the train. She must play a part and speak afterward of herself the whole time, and those remarks about her at the beginning she was daily asking for more operations, and now they have been left to me. She knows how apprating she can be. You will see when we return how she will tell you how terribly she suffered without you, through she thoroughly enjoys being alone with her friend turning his head and not as me to get out of his bl. Be nice and firm when you return and don't allow her foot games, etc. Otherwise she gets worse after. She always needs soothing down.

"How is the news today, I wonder? She says my friend (Hagnetta) is rather anxious. Perhaps tomorrow he will see all better again and pray all the more for success. I always kiss and kiss you on the cheek in the evening, and long for my love.

"I saw in the paper that Greek George and wife have left for Greece from Copenhagen via Germany, France and Italy. I am astonished one thought they would go to Greece. What is Eberhardt doing? They have been bombarding Pott.

Greaves Over War's Losses.

"Oh, this miserable war! At moments one cannot bear it any more, this misery and bloodshed break one's heart. Faith, hope and trust in God's infinite justice and mercy keep me up. In France things go very slowly, but when I hear of success and the Germans have great losses, I get such a pang in the heart thinking of those and those troops and the many known names.

"All over the world losses! Well, some must come out of it, and they won't all have shed their blood in vain. Life is difficult to understand. "God bless you—have patience," that's all one can say.

"I long to loosen the weight for you to help you carry it. To stroke your brow, press you to my breast. We show nothing of what we feel when together, which happens so rarely; each keeps up for the other, and suffers in silence, but I long often to hold you tight in my arms and let you read my heart. We have understood each other. My brave boy, God help you, give strength and wisdom, comfort and success.

"Sleep well, God bless you—holy

Sleepless Nights Caused By

Tormenting Skin Diseases

When the Skin Seems Abnormal With Itching Pains.

When your skin disease reaches its worst stage and the fiery burning causes you to scratch and scratch in an effort to obtain relief, there is many a sleepless night in store for you.

It is nothing more than folly to expect to be cured by the use of local treatment, such as ointments, salves, lotions, etc. Such remedies may afford some temporary relief, but you want more than relief; you want a cure that will rid you forever of the tormenting disorder.

Eczema, tetter, hells, pimples, ulcers, irritations and scalp eruptions, as well as all other forms of skin diseases, come from a disordered condition of the blood. They must be cured through the blood, and this explains why local treatment fails so absolutely.

The radical and rational treatment is to take a thorough course of S. & S., the purely vegetable blood remedy, which thoroughly cleanses the blood of every particle of impurity. A few bottles of S. & S. will rout out the disease germs from your blood, your complexion will begin to clear up and you will soon be rid of the disease as thousands of others have.

pressures and shed joy around you and bring strength and consolation to the suffering heart.

"You always bring 'revival' as our friend (Hagnetta) says. I got a word from her today, and she says she knows his prayers follow you. I only dread Ania's humor, but time our friend was there, once a bad leg, and then her little friend. Let's hope she will hold herself in hand. I take all much cooler now and don't worry over her outbursts and moods like formerly. A break came through her behavior and words in the Crimea. We are sorry, and I am very fond of her and always shall be, but something has gone, a link broken by her behavior toward us both. She can never be as dear to me as she was. One tries to hide one's sorrows and not show pride with it.

When a Man Loves Two.
"After all, it's harder for me than her, though she does not agree, as you are all to her and I have the children, but she has me whom she says she loves. It's not worth while speaking about this, in it, and not interesting to you at all!"

"It will be a joy to go and meet you, though I have leaving Baby and the girls. And I shall be as shy, or the journey, I have never been alone to any big town. I hope I shall do all properly and your wife won't make a mess of herself."

Love, my dear, busy my very, very own—26 years my own sweet treasure. Farewell and God bless and protect you from all harm.

"My heart, and sunshine, my very life and being. For all your love be blessed, for all your tenderness be thanked, I thank you, kiss you all over and gently press you to my deeply loving old heart."

"Ever, Nicky, my own."

"I am so glad N. P. accompanies you, it makes me quieter knowing him near you and for him it's such a relief. Nobody lives in this story. Our last night together. It's not really lonely without you and so silent. Holy Angels guard you and the sweet Virgin spread her mantle of love around you."
